A Message from Pat Kelly, M.P.

After 8 years of Prime Minister Justin Trudeau, life costs more, and paycheques don't cover expenses, while taxes like the Carbon Tax keep going up. Housing is becoming increasingly inaccessible.

Mortgage payments and rent are 150% higher, violent crime is up 39%, over 50% of Canadians are $200 or less away from being broke, 9 in 10 young Canadians who don't own a home believe they never will, and food banks are seeing a record two million visits in a single month.

But Canadians looking for relief won't find any soon. In the Fall Economic Statement, the Liberal government proposed increasing taxes on middle-class Canadians and doubled down on their plans to keep boosting the carbon tax—which makes your gas, groceries, and home heating more expensive.

With family budgets tighter than ever, it's important to receive all the benefits you qualify for. Take a look through this Tax Guide to find some of the tax savings you may claim.

SAVINGS FOR ALL CANADIANS

Here are some tax benefits that apply to many Canadians. Check if you qualify.

Goods and Services Tax (GST) Credit

Four times a year, this tax-free payment helps individuals and families with modest incomes offset all or part of the GST they pay.

If you have a spouse or common-law partner, only one of you will receive this credit. When you file your tax return, CRA will determine your eligibility and will advise those who are eligible to receive the credit. You do not need to apply but you must file your annual taxes, even if you have no payment due.

Medical Expense Deductions

This credit applies to a number of medical expenses that you have paid personally – including home care services, dentistry, laser eye surgery, prescriptions, orthopedics, etc. It even includes costs associated with certain types of service animals (e.g. diabetes alert dogs). Check the CRA website for a full list of eligible expenses. The amount you can claim is the total of your expenses, minus $2,635 for 2023 ($2,759 for 2024), or 3% of the claimant's income (whichever is less). There is no limit on the amount of eligible expenses a taxpayer can claim for himself or herself, a spouse or common-law partner, or a child under 18. Keep receipts.

Carbon Tax

When the Liberals introduced their carbon tax, they promised Canadians that they would get more back from their carbon tax rebate than what they paid in carbon taxes. The independent Parliamentary Budget Officer has confirmed what Canadians already know. Most Albertans pay more in the carbon tax than they get back in the rebate. Nonetheless, a payment is made to every Canadian who files a tax return (except BC, Quebec and NWT, which have their own plans) in equal quarterly payments in January, April, July, and October. You do not need to apply. For most Canadians, the payment is deposited to your bank account at mid-month.

Canada Training Credit

The Canada Training Credit (CTC) is available for eligible tuition and other fees paid for courses taken in 2020 and subsequent tax years. Beginning with the 2019 tax year, an eligible individual can accumulate $250 in each year toward their CTC limit, up to a maximum of $5,000 in a lifetime, which can be accessed to help cover up to half of eligible tuition and fees associated with training. Note that it is only available for individuals between the ages of 26 and 65 who are Canadian residents, with income between $10,000 and the top of the third tax bracket, and for eligible courses. Contact CRA to check eligibility.

These benefits are specifically designed for families.

Child Care Expense Deductions

You can claim payments you have made to someone who has looked after your child while you either earned an income from employment, operated a business alone or, as an active partner, attended school, or conducted research.

Parents can claim up to $8,000 per child who is under the age of seven, up to $5,000 for each child aged 7 to 16 (and for infirm children over the age of 16), and $11,000 for any children who are eligible for the Disability Tax Credit.

Canada Caregiver Credit

You can claim $2,499 on your 2023 tax return under the Canada Caregiver Credit if you support a spouse, a common-law partner or a dependent with a physical or mental impairment.

If you are eligible for the Canada Caregiver amount for your spouse or common-law partner, or an eligible dependent 18 years of age or older, and their net income is less than $26,782, you may be able to claim an additional amount up to a maximum of $7,999.

Disability Tax Benefit

This non-refundable tax credit, in some cases, may be claimed by a person with severe and prolonged impairment, or by their caregiver. Where eligibility is approved, the federal amount in 2023 for an adult over 18 is $9,428. For a child, the total amount is $14,928.

“Mr. Speaker, after eight years, more than half of all Canadians are struggling just to cover their mortgage, rent, food, home heating and gasoline. Taxes and the inflation caused by taxes, wasteful spending and deficits, are crushing Canada's middle class and those desperately trying to cling to it.”

Child Disability Benefit

If your child is eligible for the disability tax credit, they may also be eligible for the Child Disability Benefit in recognition of the additional costs that can add up when caring for a child with a severe disability. It is an amount of up to $3,173 per eligible child.

More for families and for home-buyers and home owners.

Registered Disability Savings Plan

The Registered Disability Savings Plan (RDSP) ensures long-term financial security for Canadians and families who are dealing with severe disability. A grant from the Canada Disability Savings program may also be available, and for low and modest income individuals, the Canada Disability Savings Bond may apply. Please check with CRA to determine if you or a family member qualifies for these supports.

Adoption Expense Tax Credit

This is a 15% non-refundable tax credit (“non-refundable” means it can be deducted from taxes owed, but is not returned to you as a cash payment if you have no tax owing) that allows adoptive parents to claim eligible adoption expenses relating to the completed adoption of a child under the age of 18. For the 2023 tax year, the maximum claim for each child is $18,210.

Multigenerational Home Renovation Tax Credit

Many older adults would like to stay in their own home and live as independently as possible. For some families, a home may be renovated to create a “granny suite,” or an area within the home of adult children where an elderly parent can live. This is one type of situation where the Multigenerational Home Renovation Tax Credit (MHRTC) could apply.

The MHRTC is a refundable credit available to assist with the cost of renovating an eligible dwelling to establish a secondary unit that enables a qualifying senior or adult to live with a qualifying relation. The MHRTC is calculated as 15% of eligible expenses for a qualifying renovation, to an upper limit of $50,000. Only one qualifying renovation is permitted during the lifetime of a qualifying individual.

Tax-Free First Home Savings Account

The Tax-Free First Home Savings Account offers prospective first-time home buyers the ability to save $40,000 tax-free. Like registered retirement savings plans (RRSP), contributions to an FHSA are tax deductible. Like tax-free savings accounts (TFSA), income and gains inside an FHSA, as well as withdrawals, are tax-free. You are allowed to contribute a total of $8,000 annually, up to a maximum account value of $40,000.

SAVINGS FOR SENIORS

Seniors may be eligible for tax benefits targeted specifically for them.

Home Accessibility Tax Credit

The Home Accessibility Tax Credit allows seniors and persons with disabilities (who are eligible for the Disability Tax Credit) to qualify for tax relief of 15% on up to $20,000 in eligible expenses. To be eligible, expenses must be incurred in relation to a renovation allowing for better mobility and functionality or reducing the risk of harm (for example, a wheelchair ramp).

Doubling the Pension Income Amount

The maximum amount of eligible pension income that can be claimed increased from $1,000 to $2,000 a few years ago. This higher rate results in more savings that can be deducted against pension income.

Increasing the Age Amount

The Age Amount also increased by $2,000 to help low and middle-income seniors. Based on this increase and on subsequent adjustments for inflation, the Age Amount allows seniors to claim up to $8,396 on their 2023 tax return, depending on the individual's net income.

Pension Income-Splitting

Pension income-splitting helps to ease the tax burden and deliver fairness for Canadian pensioners.

Generally, each individual Canadian pays taxes on their full income earned. Pension income-splitting allows any Canadian resident who receives qualifying pension income to allocate a portion of that income to their spouse (or common-law partner), with whom they reside, up to one-half of that income. By doing so, a pensioner and their family can dramatically reduce their tax load by moving into a lower tax bracket.

Increasing the Age Limit for Converting RRSPs to RRIFs

Registered Retirement Savings Plans (RRSPs) provide one of the best opportunities for Canadians to save for the future. Since RRSP contributions below your RRSP deduction limit are not taxable, they are an ideal way to plan for retirement. However, some Canadians have been restricted by the way RRSPs are structured. Even though they chose to work past 69 years of age, it was a requirement to convert their RRSP into a Registered Retirement Income Fund (RRIF) and begin making taxable withdrawals.

The age limit for converting RRSPs to RRIFs was increased from 69 to 71 a few years ago, so that more Canadians have the freedom to choose when they convert their RRSPs and begin withdrawing their savings.

SAVINGS FOR WORKING CANADIANS

Working Canadians are being hit particularly hard by today's faltering economy, including local business owners who are the backbone of Canada's prosperity.

Some of the following benefits should be helpful to small businesses, Canadian workers and students.

Canada Workers Benefit

This benefit is a refundable tax credit that supplements the earnings of low-income workers to ensure they aren't penalized for getting a job. For 2023-24 this benefit will provide up to $1,518 in total for eligible single workers, and up to $2,616 for an eligible family.

Low-income working Canadians with a disability who face even larger barriers to workforce participation may qualify for an additional supplement.

Canada Employment Amount

The Canada Employment Amount provides most employees (excluding the self-employed) with help to offset the cost of work-related expenses such as home computers, uniforms and supplies. If you qualify for this amount, you can claim up to $1,368 on your 2023 tax return.

Apprenticeship Job Creation Tax Credit

Businesses that employ an eligible apprentice in a skilled trade in the first two years of an apprenticeship contract (registered with the federal, provincial, or territorial government) may be eligible to receive a non-refundable tax credit equivalent to 10% of the salaries and wages paid to the apprentice. This could translate into tax savings for an employer of up to $2,000 per eligible apprentice.

Lower Taxes for Local Business Owners, Farmers and Fishermen

When an owner of a family farm, local business, or fishing enterprise passes from one generation to the next, the properties – or shares – are subject to a Capital Gains Tax.

There is an exemption of $800,000, indexed to inflation (the lifetime capital gains exemption limit is $971,190 for the 2023 tax year). Additionally, the limit specifically for farm and fishing businesses was increased to $1 million. Conservatives introduced Bill C-208, passed in the last Parliament, which made it easier for family-owned businesses and farms to be passed down to children or grandchildren.

Eligible Educator School Supply Tax Credit

Eligible educators can claim a 25% refundable tax credit on up to $1,000 of eligible supplies purchased in a taxation year. Some examples include flashcards, art supplies, writing materials, books for the classroom and other educational materials.

Firefighters' and Search and Rescue Volunteers' Tax Credit

This is a 15% non-refundable tax credit based on an amount of $3,000 for volunteer firefighters who perform at least 200 hours of service per year. The option to claim the tax-exempt amount of up to $1,000 for an honorarium will remain in lieu of the credit, if the taxpayer prefers.

Tradespersons' Tools Deduction

Providing a deduction of up to $1,000, the employment tax deduction for eligible new tools helps those tradespeople who pay for their own tools up front, as a condition of employment, out of their own pockets.

Meal Expenses for Long-Haul Truck Drivers

The deductible portion of meal expenses for long-haul truck drivers was raised to 80% a few years ago, and it remains at this level. The Canadian tax system otherwise limits business-related meal expenses to 50% deductible.

SAVINGS FOR WORKING CANADIANS (cont'd)

Lowering the Small Business Tax Rate

The small business tax rate for Canadian-controlled private corporations was lowered to 9% a few years ago to assist small businesses in making ends meet.

Labour Mobility Expense Deduction

The Labour Mobility benefit provides a deduction of up to $4,000 per year for eligible transportation, meals, and temporary lodging costs at temporary work locations to eligible tradespersons and apprentices engaged in certain construction activities.

THE CARBON TAX AND OTHER INCREASES

Despite record cost-of-living pressures, the federal government continues to raise your taxes: CPP and EI premium rates rose on January 1, and the carbon tax and taxes on beer, wine and spirits go up again on April 1st. In addition, there are new indirect taxes such as the new Clean Fuel Standard and upcoming electricity grid requirements, both of which will raise the cost of energy again.

Carbon Tax

Canadians who live where the federal Carbon Tax applies (including Alberta) will see a significant increase on April 1. The tax, which was $65 per tonne of Carbon Dioxide emissions 2023, will rise to $80 per tonne in 2024, an increase of 23%. Despite that hike, the size of the rebate in Alberta will only increase by 16.6%. You are paying more.

This carbon tax will reach a staggering $170 per tonne by 2030. This is a devastating blow to Canadians who must heat their homes and buy vehicle fuel. It also raises food prices—tax the farmer, tax the trucker, tax the processor, tax the retailer—and you inevitably tax the consumer.

Despite all of these taxes, greenhouse gas emissions have not declined. The carbon tax is not effective. It is not an environmental policy; it's a taxation policy.

HIGHER TAXES FOR ALL CANADIANS

CPP Premium Hike

The government continues to hike CPP contributions for both employees and employers. The maximum contribution for earnings of $68,500 will be $3,867.50 in 2024, up from $3,754 in 2023. For employees earning more than $68,500, a second contribution will be required, increasing the total contribution by both employees and employers by another $188 for an employee making $72,300 or more.

EI Premium Rate Hike

EI premium rates were $1.49 in 2015 when this government was elected. For 2024, the maximum premium for employees will be calculated as $1.66 for every $100 of income, with a maximum contribution of $1,049. For employers the maximum annual premium will rise to $1,469. It is the wrong time to ask businesses and employees to pay even more.

Beer, Wine and Spirit Excise Tax

Effective April 1, the federal excise tax on beer, wine and spirits will go up by a whopping 4.7%, further exacerbating the already heavy impact of inflation on one of life's simple pleasures. I have been fighting this automatic annual tax increase for years.

Mr. Speaker, for those Canadians who have even just a little bit left over at the end of the month, and who want to enjoy a basic middle-class indulgence like a bottle of wine with a loved one, or a beer with some buddies while watching a game, the NDP-Liberal government is going to raise the taxes on beer, wine and spirits again, for the eighth year in a row, on April 1. I call on all MPs to support my private member's bill, Bill C-266, and let Parliament have the final say on taxes. Bring happy hour back for working Canadians.
